RESPONSE TO AMENDMENT

1. Claims 1-8 are pending in the application, claims 4-8 are withdrawn from consideration.
2. Amendments to the claims, filed on March 15, 2006, have been entered in the above-identified application.

REJECTIONS

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Huang (U.S. Patent No. 5,571,051) in view of Huang (U.S. Patent No. 6,663,500).

Regarding Applicant's claim 1, Huang '051 discloses a grip belt (golf club grip, title) comprising a nonwoven fabric base material (felt, col. 4, line 14) having a plurality of through holes through top and bottom sides thereof (figure 2), an elastic polyurethane cover layer (col. 4, line 4) bonded to the top side of said nonwoven fabric base material (figure 2), a plurality of small air holes formed in the elastic polyurethane cover layer adjacent to the nonwoven fabric base material (figure 2) and a plurality of air cells formed in the elastic polyurethane cover layer within and around the through holes (pores, col. 3, line 53 and figure 12).

Huang '051 fails to disclose that the through holes are filled up the through holes.

Huang '500 discloses an all weather composite grip for golf clubs (title) comprising a felt base material with polyurethane cover layer (col. 3, lines 54-57). The polyurethane covers and impregnates the felt (col. 5, lines 54-56).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to impregnate the felt with polyurethane as taught by Huang '500 in Huang '051 in order to improve the weatherability of the grip.

Regarding Applicant's claim 2, Huang '051 discloses that the grip belt further comprises a plurality of recessed portions (tread, col. 4, line 34) formed in one side of the elastic polyurethane cover layer opposite to the nonwoven fabric base material corresponding to the through holes (figure 5).

Regarding Applicant's claim 3, Huang '051 discloses that the through holes are formed in the nonwoven fabric base material subject to a predetermined pattern (figure 3).

ANSWERS TO APPLICANT'S ARGUMENTS

5. Applicant's arguments in response filed March 15, 2006 regarding the 35 U.S.C. 103(a) rejection over Huang (U.S. Patent No. 5,571,051) in view of Huang (U.S. Patent No. 6,663,500) of record have been carefully considered but are deemed unpersuasive.

Applicant argues that Huang '051 teaches away from filling the through holes in any manner because Huang '051 teaches "breathing" of air through the grip. Applicant further argues that dimples are to remain open.

The section that Applicant has pointed to in Huang '051 is discussing the perforations in the elastic polyurethane cover layer that also penetrate through nonwoven layer not the interstitial holes of the nonwoven which are essentially air pockets in the nonwoven. The examiner is not proposing to fill up the perforations which give Huang '051 its breathability. The examiner is suggesting to fill up the interstitial holes of the nonwoven as claimed. Therefore, the perforation and dimples will remain open.

Applicant argues that Huang '500 does not teach the impregnation of the felt layer.

Huang '500 clearly states "The polyurethane covers and impregnates the felt" (col. 5, lines 54-56).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
